Principal's challenge spurs Cybersecurity class to action

Liberty Tech students analyze, present findings to school board members

Liberty Tech principal Jennifer Ballard issued a challenge to Cybersecurity students: analyze the check-in process at the school to determine how it could be improved. The Cybersecurity class, taught by Anthony Wallace, not only accepted the challenge but expanded it by assessing the security measures of the entire school. The class also evaluated security measures at other JMCSS schools. The students presented their findings and made several recommendations during a presentation to school board members. So proud of these students! #leadership #winning
